ANISSA COPE
MINNESOTA'S 13TH
CONFIRMED VICTIM
OF INTIMATE
PARTNER HOMICIDE
IN 2025

Anissa Cope, 49, was stabbed to death on June 28, 2025 in her home in Duluth. Anissa's husband Corddarro Cope, 37, is charged with second-degree murder. On the night of June 28, a neighbor called 911 indicating that they heard a woman screaming for help and being "thrown around" while a man told her to shut up. First responders found Anissa dead in her home. She had been stabbed in her arms, abdomen, and neck. As the neighbor called 911, Corddarro Cope fled by vehicle. He was later located on I-35 in Pine County and was taken into custody.

Wisconsin court records show Corddarro Cope pleaded guilty to violent offenses against a different intimate partner several years ago. One of these assaults occurred in 2018 and another occurred against that same victim in 2019. In both cases, Cope was facing multiple serious felony charges—including felony strangulation—but pleaded down to misdemeanor domestic battery.

Anissa Cope was described by friends as a "kind, compassionate soul" who "made the world brighter."
